

Hope you are staying warm this winter! Buffalo has definitely had some crazy weather, and I am definitely hoping Punxsutawney Phil does not see his shadow!!

But whether he does or he doesn't, I will be taking time to celebrate Imbolc (also known as Saint Brigid's Day). Imbolc marks the onset of spring and inspires a hope to bring people through the dark season of winter into the light of spring.

This year Imbolc will have special importance, as I will not only be celebrating the onset of spring but will be putting a request in to Saint Brigid, saint of healing and fertility, to keep a watchful eye over the next seven and a half months. That's right folks, I am pregnant.

Don't fret! I'm not going to let that slow me down. In fact, this month I am launching – "Where's Dawn Lynn?" A few times a month, I will leave you clues on my social media sites as to places and times I'll be "hiding" in WNY. Be one of the first three to find me, and you get a FREE reading! More details coming soon! Check out my website!!

MY KID SEES SPARKLES

"I think my child sees ghosts! What do I do?" is a question I have been receiving more and more.

I've asked myself why many times? Is it because more children are maintaining their connection with the Spiritual side longer? Is it that our society is more accepting that there are things that exist beyond our five senses? Or is it that because this is something I have had since I was a child and was raised with it that I am the best candidate for parents to come to and ask questions? Thinking about it, it is probably all three... but the reason really doesn't matter. It is the kids that matter.

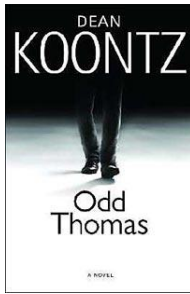

Parents come to me for one of two reasons – either to understand what their child is going through (and make sure their child isn't crazy!) or because the occurrences are scaring the child and unfortunately in some instances the child is becoming physically and emotionally sick as a result – think of the child on the Sixth Sense.

Fortunately for those parents, there are simple steps they can take to help their intuitive child, including:

- 1) You are in Control: Let them know that if a Spirit is bothering them, they don't have to hide under the covers but can tell the Spirit to GO AWAY.
- 2) Protector: Give the child a physical object and tell them as long as they have this with them, nothing can harm them.
- 3) Spirit Guides: If the child is more than 7, talk to them about their angels and loved ones who are watching them. Ask them to describe theirs.
- 4) Talk To Them: Ask your child what they are experiencing and let them know it is ok.
- 5) Meet Someone Like Them: Have them meet a medium. Knowing they are not alone goes a long way. And, you'd be surprised how far that can go.
- 6) Crystals: Rose quartz and amethyst in the bedroom can work wonders!

For parents, know you are not alone and help is always out there. There are a number of very good websites, so check out my Pinterest page.

BOOK OF THE MONTH

Odd Thomas
By Dean Koontz

“Maybe he has a gift, maybe it’s a curse, Odd has never been sure, but he tried to do his best by the silent souls who seek him out.”

Published in 2003, Odd Thomas is Dean Koontz’s first book in the “Odd” series that includes: Forever Odd (2005), Brother Odd (2006), Odd Hours (2008), Odd Interlude (2012), Odd Apocalypse (2012), Deeply Odd (2013), In Odd We Trust (2008), Odd is on Our Side (2010), House of Odd (2012) and Saint Odd (TBD).

Odd Thomas is your average twenty-something year-old, or so you would think. For he, like myself and many out there, has a secret. He sees, and in his unique way, communicates with Spirit.

Filled with love and loss, Odd Thomas, a fictional account of a psychic medium’s life. The novel depicts the quirky and sometimes dark reality of being a medium and his longing for “normalcy.” Unfortunately, Odd (like many mediums), he feels compelled by the greater good to assist and do something about the messages received which places him in many interesting situations.
