

Happy New Year!!

We rung in the 2014 with a New Moon, a fresh start and a sign this year is full of potential and ripe with opportunities. I'm ready to seize them and I hope you are too!

One way to share with the universe your hopes is through a vision board. I spoke of these last month and on New Year's Eve my husband and I created ours (check me out on Instagram to see ours). Amazingly, within 24 hours some of the goals depicted already began changing from a dream to a reality proof that manifestation doesn't take long... it just takes intent and faith. That being said if you haven't created your vision board yet, please do! Or join me on January 23rd and create one then. Once you do, please share – I'd love to see!

I'd also love to see and hear from you! This month I have a very full calendar – come out to a class or fair and say hi. Or, drop me a line via e-mail, on Facebook, twitter, instagram, or Google+ to let me know how I'm doing.

Stay warm and watch for my YouTube debut in the coming weeks! Many Blessings!

STOP SAYING "I CAN'T"

One of my favorite adages is, "Thoughts become your words. Words become your actions. Actions become your beliefs. And ultimately your beliefs become your reality." This adage is the premise of the Law of Attraction, or "like attracts like."

Since the release of The Secret by Rhonda Byrne in 2006, the Law of Attraction has gained a great deal of notoriety. Proponents of the Law of Attraction, including myself, believe that the words and energy you put toward a situation manifests the outcome. Therefore, if you believe you can't do something – you won't be able to. On the other hand, if you believe can do something – it is likely that you WILL.

Unfortunately in our society that fears failure, we are more likely to believe we can't achieve our goals than we can. This is a challenge as due to this many of us tend to be noncommittal in our words and actions. It is not uncommon to often hear people say things like, "I'll try, but I'm not going to guarantee it's going to work" or "I'm going to apply, but I don't think I'm qualified." Unfortunately, by leaving the door open for failure in this manner, it is less likely you will achieve your full potential.

Fortunately, with a few simple pointers you can change your words thus changing your mind and your outcomes creating a habit of success rather than defeat.

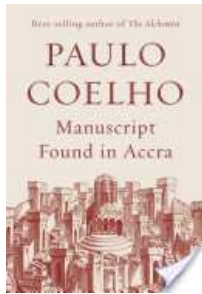

Here are my tips for living a life of success using the Law of Attraction:

- 1) Stop before the "but"
- 2) Stop using passive verbs like "I'll try"
- 3) Receive compliments graciously – don't say, "oh it was nothing" rather just say "thank you!"
- 4) Find the silver lining

Try it for a month, you'll be surprised on how it changes your life. For more on the Law of Attraction, go to my Pinterest page.

FEATURED
BOOK OF THE MONTH

Manuscript Found in Accra
By Paulo Coelho

“No matter how you are feeling, get up every morning and prepare to let your light shine forth.”

Paulo Coelho is by far one of my favorite authors. He has an uncanny ability to weave a story wrought with emotion that changes the reader’s perception of his/her life. In his latest novel, Manuscript Found in Accra, he has done this again.

Set in Jerusalem in 1099, the city awaits invasion by the crusaders. In anticipation of battle and defeat, all the townspeople, regardless of their creed, gather in the town square for words of wisdom from the astute Copt.

Through his words of love, faith, purpose and courage, the Copt instilled a sense of inspiration and hope.

The hope came from the realization that each individual had the choice to live in love or fear as only through fear could one truly be defeated. I encourage, you while reading this book, to evaluate how you approach your own battles in life. If you find you often respond in fear, perhaps this book will assist you in finding the love.
